30002. Adulteration and misbranding of Juvenol. U. S. v. 125 Bottles of Juvenol. Consent decree of condemnation. Product released under bond to be relabeled. (F. & D. No. 43981. Sample No. 39534-D.)

The labeling of this product bore false and fraudulent representations regarding its curative and therapeutic effects, and false and misleading representations regarding its constituents.

On September 30, 1938, the United States attorney for the District of Oregon, acting upon a report by the Secretary of Agriculture, filed in the district court a libel praying seizure and condemnation of 125 boxes of Juvenol at Portland, Oreg.; alleging that the article had been shipped in interstate commerce on or about April 11, 1938, by the Himalayan Research Laboratories from Santa Monica, Calif.; and charging adulteration and misbranding in violation of the Food and Drugs Act as amended.

Analysis showed that the article consisted essentially of mineral oil (approximately 27 percent) and fatty oils including castor oil.

The article was alleged to be adulterated under the provisions of the law applicable to drugs in that its strength and purity fell below the professed standard or quality under which it was sold, namely, (label) "Made from Choice Almonds, Pecan Nuts, Olives, Castor Oil Seeds and Peach Kernels," (circular headed "Juvenol," a supply of which was furnished the consignee by the consignor) "An ancient Himalayan Remedy (Himalayan Oil) made from choice nuts, seeds and fruit kernels," since it contained a substantial proportion of mineral oil.

It was alleged to be misbranded under the general paragraph applicable to foods and drugs in that the statements in the labeling, "A Rejuvenating Himalayan Remedy made from Choice Almonds, Pecan Nuts, Olives, Castor Oil Seeds and Peach Kernels * * * Can be Used as a Salad Dressing," were false and misleading when applied to an article that contained a substantial proportion of mineral oil and that was not suitable for use as a salad dressing. It was alleged to be misbranded further under the provisions applicable to drugs in that the following statements regarding its curative or therapeutic effects were false and fraudulent: (Bottle label) "'Juvenol' * * * A Rejuvenating Himalayan remedy, * * * Excellent for Kidney Stones, Gall Stones * * * Indigestion Obesity Colitis Rheumatism and all other complaints of the Liver, Spleen and Kidneys * * * Two tablespoonfuls a day will keep you fit and healthy." It was alleged to be misbranded further under the provisions of the law applicable to foods in that it was labeled, "Made from choice Almonds, Pecan Nuts, Olives, Castor Oil Seeds and Peach Kernels * * * Can be used as a Salad Dressing," so as to deceive and mislead the purchaser since it contained a substantial proportion of mineral oil and was not suitable for use as a salad dressing.

On November 14, 1938, J. C. Baird having appeared as claimant and having consented to the entry of a decree, judgment of condemnation was entered and the product was ordered released under bond conditioned that it be relabeled under the supervision of this Department.

30003. Adulteration and misbranding of sandalwood oil. U. S. v. 7 Boxes, each containing 100 capsules of Sandalwood Oil. Default decree of condemnation and destruction. (F. & D. No. 44220. Sample No. 27125-D.)

This product failed to conform to the standard laid down in the United States Pharmacopoeia because of the presence of a terpineol, an added adulterant.

On October 22, 1938, the United States attorney for the Southern District of New York, acting upon a report by the Secretary of Agriculture, filed in the district court a libel praying seizure and condemnation of 7 boxes, each containing 100 capsules of sandalwood oil at New York, N. Y.; alleging that the article had been shipped in interstate commerce on or about July 7, 1938, by the Grape Capsule Co. from Allentown, Pa.; and charging adulteration and misbranding in violation of the Food and Drugs Act.
